PricewaterhouseCoopers is one of the world's leading providers of professional services with 130,000 people in over 148 countries. We provide industry-focused assurance, tax and advisory services to clients that range from the world's largest multinationals to some of its most innovative entrepreneurs.

Our international network of colleagues is a cornerstone of our business that mirrors the diversity of our clients. From Dublin to Durban and from Minneapolis to Manila, our job is channeling knowledge through our services and industry-specialised practices. To enhance this critical network, we, at PricewaterhouseCoopers, develop our people and meet client needs by deploying staff on short and long-term international assignments.

What is PricewaterhouseCoopers Check-In?

PricewaterhouseCoopers Check-In for trainees provides students nearing graduation residing in one of the participating territories, the possibility to complete an internship in another participating country.

PricewaterhouseCoopers Check-In for graduates provides students who are looking for their first job, a chance to apply to one of the participating territories from their country of residence.

Internships and new graduate placements can last anywhere from 3-6 months, depending on both the applicant and local office needs at the time of hire.

Which Countries are involved in Check-In?

Currently, seven countries participate in Check-In for trainees and graduates, however this number is expected to grow in the future. Keep checking our website for updates. Participating countries include: France, Germany, Italy, Luxembourg, Spain, Switzerland and The Netherlands.

Who are we looking for?

We, at PricewaterhouseCoopers, are looking for energetic and creative individuals who bring new insights and original perspectives to our business. We seek people who can think holistically about businesses and their issues, are not afraid to challenge convention, who strive for the highest standards of quality in everything they do, and who recognise that they form part of a team.

In order to apply to the PricewaterhouseCoopers Check-In program, trainee candidates should be in the last years of studies and graduate candidates should have graduated (or should be about to graduate) from university or business school in the field of: auditing, finance, economics or management (or have a strong interest in these fields). You as an applicant should have mastery of the English language as well as the language of the desired destination country, and should have gained experience or exposure abroad (through internships or travel).
